

METHOD AND STRUCTURE FOR TRANSFORM REGRESSION

ABSTRACT

A predictive model method (and structure) includes receiving an input data into an initial model to develop an initial model output and receiving both of the input data and the initial model output as input data into a first transform/regression stage.